In discussing and considering the condition of the times and the necessity of sid for the suffering unemployed, nothing wome than the truth should be recognized. We are sure that there will he a hard winter for those who usually live from hand to mouth, but the distrees is not going to be anything like appalling. The charities of the state and the city, if whele and properly organhead, will be found ample to care for all prospective distress. While times are f so good as everybody would like to have thom, yet they are not so bad as might have been feared, a few months ago, that they would be. It is as true now, so it was when the panic was on, been utterly forgotten. that creaking about it always makes a had matter worse. The fellow who, in August, was continually creaking that the backs were about to burst and the country going to eternal domnition in a to nate, was most severely censured by the more conservative and stronger minded portion of the community. is to get northern saidiers to believe it. THE ENGLISH LIKE IT. The Wilson tariff bill seems pretty certain to meet with popular approval in England. As an indication they like its provisions the following is taken from the Pail Mail Gazette. In a recent issue that paper says: "The tariff bill quite meets with our expectations. Mr. Wilson and the democratic committee had the shrewdness to recognize the principle of economy, namely, that a tax on raw material is a tax on home industries. We naturally, would have liked better to see taxes upon manufactured goods greatly modified. But this is only a beginning. We cannot expect Americans to pluage suddenly into free trade. In the meanwhile it is sufficiently gratifying to reflect upon the route of Mo-Kinleyism, even though the author of the system be the chosen of Ohio and of

THE old adage "Murder Will Out," seems fair to have a fresh illustration in the Cronin murder case. Hood's Cures

"The Tornado" was a realistic and scenic surprise to the large andience in The Grand last night. Amazement be-The Grand last night. Amazoment be-gan with the first act when the storm struck Mount Maple and ended with the final curtain. Theatre goers are unno-customed to see a tornade rush through a valley, unroofing houses, felling trees, whiring buildings through space, filling the air with everything from a soup box to the side of a barn. One gross appre-hensive for individual personal safety, the realism with a vegrance. Such is heasive for individual personal safety, it is realism with a veogrance. Such is the climar of the tirst act of "The Torness. One instant peace and happiness, the next ruin and death in the awful rush and coar of wind. The next chasing his wife, who is made to believe him an illegitimate son of her own father, and is on another steamer which founders, and the woman is rescued by the remei which carries her husband the ressel which carries her husband. Another storm comes up and shows the sailors high on the mast taking in sail. In the fog the Erwa is struck amidships by a steamer and cut in two. The bow of the vessel dashes half way across the stage at great speed, accompanied by a ripping of planks, wrenching of plates and screams of the passengers which are complements to such an occasion. The across showing the passengers struggling screams of the passengers which are complements to such an occasion. The scene showing the passengers struggling in a sea running mountains high is exceptionally good. In the fourth act is a picture which is as gruesome as it is sensational. The hero, who is a physician, stands at the operating table in the dissecting room of a Chicago medical college, ready to demonstrate. He tells the students what portion of the subject each may have. The place is dark, save the strong light thrown on the table; he turns back the sheet and finds the supposed corpse of his wife. "The Tornado" is highly sensational and presents a new order of things which keeps interest at fever heat. The company is in the main good. The character work of Arda LaCroix as old Lamont and McKinney was delightfully done. Miss Stevens as Bridget O'Rafferty gave an excellent portrayal of a warm hearted Irish woman. The George Lamont of Lon Blanden was too stagy. If more warmth were thrown into it improvement would be seen. The balance of the cast was equal to requirements.

The London Belles Burlesque com-The London Belles Burlesque com-pany opened a week's engagement in Smith's yesterdsy afternoon. One of the noticably pleasant features of the attraction is the strong work of the chorus, whose voices and faces are those of youth. The burletta, which opens the bill, "No Man's Island," is without merit, save to introduce a number of choruses more or less catchy. The pro-gram concludes with "The Crystal Slipgram concludes with "The Crystal Sup-per," an attempt at burlesque on "The Tar and Tartar." The strength of the show is its olio, nearly all the turns being excellent. The Sheerans, James and Lydia, do a clever sketch, the wit of and Lydis, do a clever sketch, the wit of which sparkles like a bottle of phizz. Belle Chifton jodels well and dances better. The Howard sisters do a neat turn and the Four Gondollers have a graceful dance. The women are shapely especially Rose Sydell, and the show will undoubtedly do satisfactory business.

Street Sweeper Traveled 200 Miles to Clean the Tracks.

The Street Railway company's revolv-ing snow plow was taken from the barn on Wealthy avenue at 6 o'clock Saturday on its first trip this winter. All day the snow had impeded the care and at 6 o'clock the schedule time was comat 6 o'clock the schedule time was com-pletely demoralized. The sweeper worked constantly until 10 o'clock Sun-day morning before all the tracks were cleared. Superintendent of Tracks Campbell said yesterday morning few people knew how large a job it is to keep tracks cleared of snow, so that electric cars can operate. The Consoli-dated company has between fifty and sixty miles of double tracks, all of which must be passed over once, and more must be passed over once, and more than one half of it passed over twice in order to sweep, because after having swept both tracks of any one line the sweeper must run back to some transfer point to begin work on another line. It is not an exaggeration to state that the sweeper travelod 200 miles from the time it started Saturday evening until it pulled in at 10 o'clock yesterday. It takes from six to eight men to operate the sweeper and owing to the extremely uncomfortable nature of the work they are paid 30 cents an hour, instead of 15 cents, the regular price. The sweeper is always operated at night, except when extremely stormy weather forces the company to run it out in the day time to keep cars moving: The sweeper is apt to scare horses, and that is one reason for operating it at night, when the streets are deserted.

Home for the Winter.

Capt. William Nicholson, commander of the Goodrich steamer Atlanta of the Chicago line, has returned to his ho 178 Quimby street, for the winter. The captain is considered one of the most capable officers attached to the lake marine and is also a great favorite with the traveling public, who feel that a vessel commanded by him is in the hands of a man whose habits and experience is sufe in both storm and fair weather. During the season just past, he made 113 trips across the lake having lost but two over trip. This is consul-ered a remarkable record. His vessel has just gone into winter quarters.
